

Today's law firms are utilising technology to achieve competitive advantage.

Technology is helping them evolve their value propositions, fee structures and engagement models to meet developing client expectations whilst realising efficiencies and maximising billable hours throughout the value chain.

How can your firm build revenue and improve client experience, introduce agile working practices that help attract the best talent and increase productivity, all whilst operating in an increasingly hostile digital landscape that necessitates a robust cybersecurity posture to tackle cyber threats head-on?

“Six Degrees understands our business and our business needs... it is a valued strategic partner that obviously listens to its clients.”
